The ever-increasing size and scope of the Cyberspace is making Cybercrime investigations a complex task requiring good appreciation of a number of domains. The objective of this special track is to bring stakeholders of Cyber Incident Response and Investigations from different backgrounds to share their experiences in addressing the specific issues of Cyber Incident Management.

A holistic view is needed is solve the jigsaw puzzle of Cyber Investigations. Bottom-up approaches are equally important to improve investigation processes and develop rigorous underlying techniques. The processes and techniques of each discipline should be able to coexist with their counterparts from other disciplines and they need to be adaptive and responsive to specific case requirements. This interactive session will provide an opportunity to discuss the most challenging issues faced by the Cyber Firefighters in their respective roles and how their work can be supported by the different stakeholders.

A range of contribution types will allow the participants to actively involved in the session irrespective of the maturity level of their work. Participants with established results will find this platform useful to get their results integrated in the bigger picture of Cyber Incident ecosystem.
