

Lorena Parra (loparbo@doctor.upv.es): She was born in Oliva, Valencia (Spain) on February 22, 1989. She received her Bachelor's degree in Environmental Sciences in 2012. She completed her Master's Degree in Environmental Assessment and Monitoring of Marine and Coastal Ecosystems in 2013 and his Master in Aquiculture in 2013. She received his PhD in Science and Technology of Animal Production 2018. She currently works as a postdoctoral researcher in Universitat Politècnica de València and Instituto Madrileño de Investigación y Desarrollo Rural, Agrario y Alimentario focusing her research on precision agriculture. She is the author/co-author of 40 publications (including articles in international magazines and book chapters) and in 45 participations in congresses. She has participated in more than 20 conferences as a member of the technical committee or organising committee and has recently been appointed chair at an international conference. She has been the editor of proceedings, panellist and chair in various congresses. She is guest editor of several Special Issues of indexed journals. She has participated in various days of scientific dissemination in talks to education centres and innovation and entrepreneurship days. Furthermore, she has participated in various national and international research projects.